RE: Alliant Communications

To Whom It May Concern,

We've been working with Alliant Communications since their inception and have been very happy with their service from both their Computer Network Administrative services to their Telecommunication services. Scott Mattingly, co-owner of Alliant Communications, has designed, installed and maintained a very efficient, state of the art, computer network for us. Based on the excellent relationship established with him and his staff, we made the decision to purchase the Shoretel phone system in July of 2007. As expected we have had excellent support from all their staff and continue to receive top notch service. I highly recommend Alliant Communications for your computer network and telecommunication needs.
