

Alliant Communications has been a vendor for our company for years and we feel it is to our benefit to be a client of theirs. They have been attentive to our needs and growth as they have experienced the same growth patterns. I think that really helped them understand what we and their clients feel.

Alliant works hard every day to provide a high level of service and support for our company. They are responsive, timely and accurate and consistent. The entire staff is an extension of ours with the same desire to provide excellent customer service and it's through their hard work and efforts that I can say this. The Partner Plan, implemented in 2008, has been the most helpful program as it provides my business the ability to call and get priority attention when I need it. This has relieved a lot of pressure from regular complications with internet and computer systems that I cannot tend to. This program allows me to operate the day to day operations more efficient. I really appreciate Alliant stepping forward and providing this program.
